

Fellow-In-Training (FIT) Scholarship Guidelines

In recent years, the American College of Rheumatology (ACR) has had to reduce financial support for its long tradition of attendance of all rheumatology fellows at the ACR Annual Scientific Meeting and the State of the Art (SOA) Meeting. In response, the PRS Board of Directors (BOD) has approved a one-time scholarship for each rheumatology fellow enrolled in an ACGME accredited Pennsylvania Adult or Pediatric Rheumatology Fellowship Program to be used to attend any ACR sponsored CME meeting.

- The fellow must be a PRS member and must attend the PRS Annual Scientific Meeting during the academic year the scholarship is given.
- The fellow may use the scholarship one time only in either the 1st, 2nd or 3rd year of fellowship.
- The amount awarded will be no more than $1,000 per FIT.
- The fellow can be reimbursed for any reasonable travel, registration, room, meals, or poster printing costs for attending the meeting. The PRS reserves the right to determine what is reasonable.
- Receipts and a completed PRS reimbursement form must be submitted to the PRS to obtain the reimbursement.
- The nominating Program Director must be a member of PRS to nominate.
- Rheumatology fellowship Program Directors must nominate the fellow by July 31st to be considered and must certify that the fellow will not be double reimbursed (double dipping).

The following meetings are eligible for reimbursement:

- ACR/ARHP Annual Meeting
- Winter Rheumatology Symposium
- Musculoskeletal Ultrasound Course for Rheumatologists
- State of the Art Meeting (SOTA)
- CARRA (Childhood Arthritis and Rheumatology Research Alliance)
- Pediatric Rheumatology Symposium (PRYSM)
